

TARIFFE PICTURES.

In the last year of the Democratic Free-trade Tariff only 31 per cent.

of our imports came in free of revenue only duties. In 1892 59.3 per cent.

Imports were free. Trade is really free now than ever before in our history.

SPECIALLY FITTED.

Washington Post.—Mr. Schurz's long experience in holding office and changing political parties has especially qualified him for the reform work upon which he is now engaged.

+ CURIOSITY AROUSED.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat.—The new Controller of the Currency has entered upon his duties, and the people will be curious to see how he performs a task about which he frankly says he knows nothing.

IN A NUTSHELL.

Philadelphia Ledger.—To send bonds to Europe instead of gold and to get gold sent back in return for bonds is a way out of the existing financial muddle which is not only easy, but certain to have the wished for result.

AN OBJECT LESSON.

Boston Journal.—As President Cleveland touched the button which set the wheels of this country's grand industrial exhibit whirling in Chicago, he was probably willing inwardly to acknowledge that the American system of Protection has not been such a "choking" and "withering" instrument after all.

WESTERN DEMOCRATS IMPATIENT.

St. Louis Republic (Dem).—The quicker the extra session of Congress is called the better. In no other way can Secretary Carlisle be so well defended from the Wall street speculators and money dealers, who are determined to control the Treasury in spite of the Democratic platform.

A FITTING ACT.

Chicago Inter Ocean.—After the Titantic thunders of this peaceful fleet had died away, and the grandest Naval tribute ever accorded to the memory of a great man had been paid to the memory of Columbus, it was a dramatic close to the great occasion when the flagship of the American fleet steamed slowly up the river and fired a salute in honor of the great commander who sleeps at Riverside.

SHAM JOKES.

Kentucky Journal.—How long will this mountebank be permitted to outrage decency and the purity by his vulgarity and coarseness? Quoting "The Cornell, Santa Maria" meaning, just as he is encouraged to do so by the invitations of clergymen to occupy their pulpits, and so long as crowds go to hear him, and not for one moment longer. The fault is less with Sam Jones than with those who control the pulpits.

WHO WAS THE MINISTER?

Exchange.—Professor Fidel Adler, in a recent lecture on the desirability of having the World's Fair opened Sunday, gave an illustration of the method resorted to by the church to represent public sentiment as opposed to this course. The Minister of one little congregation asked all those in favor of opening and halloving the Sabbath "why?" Of course everybody got up. Then all those in favor of desecrating, profaning and destroying the Sabbath "rise." Of course no one rose. Then the Minister hurried to inform the Congressman of his district that his congregation was unanimously in favor of Sunday closing of the Fair.

WEAKENING ALREADY.

Times Star.—The general result of town elections throughout Indiana the first of this week has a good deal of significance. Honors were divided about equally between the two parties. After a National election, especially soon after, when the distribution of offices has not gone so far that dissatisfaction and dissension are created in every community, the victorious party usually gathers in that element called the floating vote. There is a drift of the class to the winning side. The smaller electors indicate a weakening rather than a strengthening of the Democracy. And it is only two months since the party took possession of the National Government.

An electric light plant is being put in at Glasgow.

The work on the City Hospital improvements at Louisville has been a standstill for some time, and if steps are not taken to complete the task the $80,000 thus far expended will be the same as wasted.

It is to be hoped, says The New York Times, that in his dealings with the Chicago bankers Secretary CARLISLE will adopt a firmer and more dignified tone than he did in his servile letter to the Chairman of the Boston Clearing House Committee. In that epistle he said:

All the banks in the country which now hold gold would unite the example set at Boston the present financial situation would soon be changed, and there could be no doubt hereafter as to the ability of the Government to furnish the patriotic assistance of the people, to maintain its credit, even under the most unfavorable circumstances.

Such an utterance from the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States is without excuse. The banks of this country were not organized to maintain a surplus in the Treasury; they were organized to serve the business community. It is no part of their duty to go beyond the functions for which they were instituted. The assertion of Mr. CARLISLE, that if the banks "would come to the aid of the Government," is to the power of the Government to maintain its credit, is in the nature of a totally unwarranted attack on the financial standing of the United States. This Nation is today the richest Nation under the sun. Its resources are without limit, its prosperity is on a solid basis of healthy industrial development, and its credit is unequalled in the money markets of the world. The suggestion that the gratuitous aid of the banks is necessary to enable the United States to maintain its credit is preposterous.

It is time that Secretary CARLISLE abandoned the attitude of a mendicant, who stands, bat in hand, beseeching the passers by for alms. Such an attitude is insulting to the American Government and the American people.

Meanwhile, in the words of The Kentucky Standard, "This is a Democratic Administration."

DURING March, 1893, there was a decrease of more than $1,000,000 in the public debt. That was under a Republican Administration. During March, 1863, there was an INCREASE of $8,728,819 in the public debt. And "This is a Democratic Administration."

THE GAMBLERS

In Stocks Get No Sympathy
From Washington.

The Administration Not in Favor of Relieving Speculators.

Small Bills to Be Issued by the Government to Protect the Gold Reserve by Lessening the Demand for an Exchange of Gold for Currency.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The disturbed condition of the market in New York Wednesday and Thursday provoked no sympathetic response from Washington, although it seems to be a general belief now that the administration will take some steps to relieve the stress of the situation. It will not be very pleasant news in the east, but nevertheless, it is a fact that neither the president nor the secretary of the treasury seem to be willing to do anything to meet the call upon them to come to the relief of "speculators" as those who are affected by the recent sudden changes in stocks are commonly characterized here. An official is discussing this matter Thursday.

"We cannot understand why a heavy reduction in the price of cordage, or sugar, or whisky certificates should have the consideration, care or protection of the government. It is a matter of private business, and nothing can be done, and the appeal to the government for help will not do any good."

With the $100,000,000 danger line passed in safety, there is a feeling of financial security in administration circles that should prevail in the present adverse influences of the market. There is no denying the fact that bonds were thought to be necessary, at least a strong probability, not long ago, while now it is a remote contingency. The gold reserve can be drawn now for $90,000,000 or $80,000,000 and with the consequent loss to the government a handsome and comparatively abundant supply for redemption purposes.

All the time there is the expectation that gold shipments will increase and the currency be turned the other way. The latest reports indicate a shipment on Saturday next of about $2,000,000 in gold. There was in the treasury Thursday $80,000,000 in round numbers. The gold reserve had been gradually shrinking to the $100,000,000 mark, and the threatened shipment, if carried into effect, will retard the movement. Offers of gold are still being received, but not in great quantity.

Banks have been complaining of the small denominations. Their complaints will be remedied, as it is understood, to be the purpose of the treasury department to issue notes hereafter of the smallest denomination possible. This plan was tried in 1863, during the Civil War administration, in order to protect the currency, and it worked very satisfactorily. Notes of small denomination remain in circulation, while the larger denominations are held because they are more convenient. The consequence of the accumulation of notes of large denomination is the ultimate presentation of them for gold.

For some unknown reason there was a heavy issue of large denominations during the change of administrations last May, and the small note will have full scope to continue in our circulation feature hereafter.
